THE NEW NOVELS, at every Library.

THE SISTERS LAWLESS. By the Author of "Rosa Noel." 3 vols. crown 8vo.

"Written in a racy fascinating style, this is one of the best novels which has appeared for some time. The author dashes at once into the story in a fresh and lively manner which is well sustained throughout. The plot is highly romantic, yet natural, and there is much talent displayed in the skilful concealment of the secret of the tale. Bright and deeply interesting, there is not a single dull page in this charming book. The plot is of absorbing interest."—Morning Post.

"This story will add materially to the fame which its author deservedly won by 'Rosa Noel.'"—Graphic.

"An excellent novel, with a briskness and originality which makes the book pleasant reading throughout."—Fanshawe.

"Pamie Smith, the pretty little American girl, is unfairly treated in not having a book all to herself, so naive and droll as she is, so impec-cious and good-hearted, and all that is contradictory and bewitching.

When the reader's attention is aroused it never slumbers nor sleeps any more until all the tale is told."—Times.

THE HISTORY OF INDIA, from the Earliest Ages. By J. TALBOYS WHEELER, Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah. Vol. III.—Hindu-Buddhist—Brahmanical Revival. Demy 8vo, pp. 524, with 2 maps, cloth, 18s.

* The above volume forms also a complete work in itself, and may be had with separate title, as "The History of India: Hindu, Buddhist, and Brahmanical."

"The volume, just out in India, is a calm philosophic narrative or digest of Indian history as a whole. I can answer for myself that, busy and unsettled as I have been, with scarcely a resting-place for the sole of my foot, I have by some means or other read this volume through, or nearly so. On the India of the Vedas, of the Brahmins, and of the Buddhists, Mr. Wheeler throws a strong light, in a style which never wearies one and never seems to lose in any partizan view the thread of philosophical thought or inquiry."

"I wish you all the success of the Spectator, Teller, and the Guardian. What does not society owe to the man who, after protecting her laws for eight hours a day, gives up the residue of his time to the amelioration of politics and morals?"—SYDNEY SMITH to THOMAS WALKER, May 22, 1835.

Edited by BLANCHARD JERROLD.

WITH BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF THE THOMAS WALKERS, FATHER AND SON.

2 vols. demy 8vo, price 21s.

"The author was a shrewd observer: a courageous thinker on such subjects as the Poor Laws and the condition of the agricultural labourer. He was the intimate friend of Sydney Smith; the highly-valued correspondent of Sir Robert Peel. But what he was, and what his father was before him, I have endeavoured to set forth in the biographical chapters that precede this edition of 'The Original'—an edition which, I hope, may find its way to the shelves of many libraries."—BLANCHARD JERROLD'S PREFACE.

SACRED ANTHOLOGY:

A BOOK OF ETHNICAL SCRIPTURES.

By MONCURE D. CONWAY, M.A.

(Extract from Prof. Max Müller's Address at the Oriental Congress.)

"A patient study of the sacred Scriptures of the world is what is wanted at present, more than anything else, in order to clear our ideas of the origin, the nature, and the purposes of religion. In the end we shall be able to restore that ancient bond which unites not only the East with the West, but all the members of the human family, and may learn what a Persian poet meant when he wrote many centuries ago—I quote from Mr. Conway's 'Sacred Anthology'—'Diversity of worship has divided the human race into seventy-two nations. From among all their dogmas I have selected one—the love of God.'"
